Queer Liberation!

Like racism and sexism, oppression of sexual and gender minorities under capitalism divides the working class, creating material and ideological barriers to what is truly a joint struggle for liberation.

The material abuses LGBTQIA+ people experience include: employment discrimination, disparate access to and outcomes of healthcare, disparate access to housing, police violence, and the loss of queer space not organized around economic exchange.

As queer and queer-allied socialists, we fight for a world without material or legal restrictions on sexuality and a world where our social relationships are not dictated and constrained by capital.

Rainbow capitalism is not enough.

As with other marginalized groups, once LGBTQIA+ people gain (some) rights, capitalism aims to co-opt identities into lifestyles that can be marketed and sold.

We should celebrate and define sexuality on our own terms, not by what products and identities the market sells us.

We reject rainbow capitalism. We fight for queer liberation and economic justice.

Rights are not given. They are won.

Queer history is Louisiana's history. The Choctaw had Hatuklikanna and Hatukholba (now called Two-Spirit) people before European colonization. In 1963, trans philanthropist Reed Erickson set the legal precedent in Louisiana when he began his transition.

LGBTQIA+ activists fought for every right we have. As socialists, we reject state violence in all its forms. We fight for queer liberation and bodily freedom. Baton Rouge DSA is building a movement where everyone is free.

Today, Queer history and people are under attack. It is only through collective action and solidarity with all oppressed people that we can win.

The Democratic Socialists of America is the largest socialist organization in the United States. Baton Rouge DSA is fighting to make Baton Rouge a place for all people.

A better world is possible. Together we can make it real.
